Simon Cross
Fourth week (9 February)

“According to some, Simon is a weirdo, an extremist, a hippy, and a heretic. On the balance of probability, at least one of those things is bound to be right.” Simon works as a chaplain in Grimsby. His research focuses on spiritual capital in post-secular society, asking why people take part in activities for the common good.

The Revd Dr Sabina Alkire
Sixth week (23 Feb)

Sabina is Director of the Oxford Poverty and Human Development Initiative in the OU Department of International Development. She works on a new approach to measuring poverty and well-being, going beyond the traditional focus on income and growth.
