1	Names, contact information, the dates and nature of inquiries relating to visitors, enquirers, researchers and donors to our archives. Records include the contact details of applicants for access to College archives, records of applications including the reasons for the application, the nature of the records requested and the access granted. Records may include disability information if this is relevant to accessibility of the archive. It may also includes information about the reasons for the researcher's interest, which may refer for example to their religion or belief.	you We generate this data about you	To maintain a record of how our archives have been used and who has previously used them, so that we can monitor the use and integrity of our archives. It is useful to refer back to earlier enquiries on similar topics. This information is also retained for the security of the collections.	Permanently, except for disability information provided to us solely for accessibility purposes, which will be retained for 12 months after your last contact with us.	Processing is necessary for the purposes of our or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridder by your data protection rights and freedoms	The College has a legitimate interest in maintaining the integrity of its archives, to ensure they are kept securely and are available as a resource for researchers and others with a legitimate interest in reviewing the archives.	for compliance with equality law (Substantial public interest under the UK Data Protection Act)	In the case of processing disability data relevant for access requirements, the processing is necessary for the prevention of a breach of its obligations under the Equality Act 2010. The processing is necessary for reasons of substantial public interest, namely that the College must comply with its statutory obligations concerning equality and to make reasonable adjustments. Such processing must be carried out without consent so as not to prejudice those purposes. In the case of other special category data, the processing is necessary for archiving and/or scientific or historical research purposes, and is in the public interest.	allegation grounds N/A
